Building almost three thousand new households in Maldon and Heybridge without any improved link to the A12/mainline railway is a recipe for increased congestion and delays through Danbury and Hatfield Peverel. Public money should be used to establish a dual carriageway and/or light railway westward out of the district. Setting aside land for job creation in no way guarantees that enough jobs will be created and many people will continue to commute. Improved public transport would also address the problem of out migration by young people. Adding 2,830 households to Maldon/Heybridge will create a greatly increased demand for school places. The idea that this can be addressed simply by expanding the already very large Plume School is unsound. The plan should include a new secondary school in Heybridge. It seems to me that the council is happy to hand over land to profit making developers, but is abrogating it's responsibility for providing the necessary infrastructure and services.
